"Not worth your time..."

Reviewed November 4, 2014

This is only my second time reviewing anything on Trip Advisor- but I felt sure I needed to write one for this.... We were a group of 16 out in Napa celebrating a birthday milestone. Although some of our group were novices- many were sincere & expert wine collectors/drinkers. The concierge from the Villagio recommended the Caves so off we went. The owner/operator (forgot his name) was pompous. He loved to hear himself talk. We learned more about his personal life than about wine. His assistant for the day seemed more knowledgeable & more engaging then him. The tour included a spread of cheese, meat, bread, etc- which was well done. But other than that- this visit was a waste...

"Most unique wine tasting tour in Napa"

Reviewed November 3, 2014

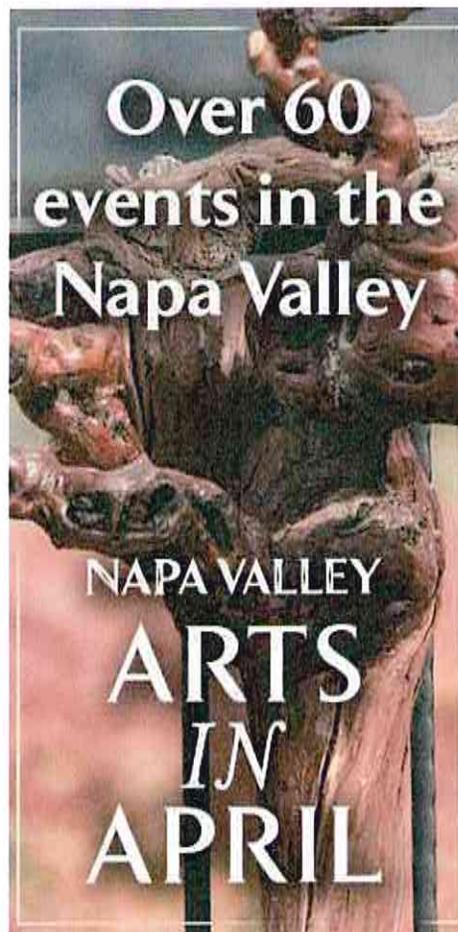

This was a totally unique experience in wine tasting. Definitely need to have a reservation and the fees start at $40/pp. You drive up this little road and up to the top of the mountain to enter The Caves. The top of the mountain has been drilled through to make tunnels in which 4 wine families produce and store the wine. The tour took about an hour and our tour guide was very knowledgeable and passionate about the wines and how they are processed. This is a definite place to visit. We met Ryan Waugh who is the mastermind

"Great place to visit"

Reviewed October 17, 2014 via mobile

This was our second visit to the caves. The first was during construction. The finished product is fantastic. The Caves are the home for four boutique small production wineries and they produce some amazing wines. The tour of the caves was very interesting. We got to see up close much of the making of wine. Finally, the view of Napa valley is beyond description. Everyone was extremely nice and helpful. This should be a must stop for everyone.

"Fabulous Wine Experience"

Reviewed September 10, 2014

My husband and I have been visiting Napa/Sonoma valleys every fall for at least the past 10 years. We recently visited The Caves At Soda Canyon on a recommendation from a friend. What a treat! We were greeted by the energetic Crystal Waugh for a tour and tasting. The cave is amazing and when fully completed will be a highly sought after destination for weddings, etc. We tasted from four different wineries housed within the cave. All had stellar wines and the fun of tasting from four places in a unique setting and not having to drive was a BONUS! At the completion of the tastings we exited the rear of the cave to a spectacular view overlooking Napa Valley from above the Stags Leap district, STUNNING. We were then invited up the hill to further enjoy the view and were able to meet with Ryan Waugh, founder of The Caves and winemaker for Waugh Cellars. The energy level, magnetism, and vision of this young winemaking couple will take them far as will their fabulous wines. Highly recommend and can't wait to go back!!!

"Amazing View, Wine and Hospitality!!!"

Reviewed September 5, 2014

Some friends and I recently visited this newer destination in Napa Valley - The Caves at Soda Canyon. The customer service was excellent and our hosts were great fun. The winery is actually four different wine making families sharing the facility that was master-minded by Ryan Waugh - one of the wine makers - and his wife, Crystal. The four wine labels are Buoncristiani, Lobo, Patland and Waugh Cellars, and my friends and I really enjoyed them all. Also, it was nice to be at one location and yet be able to taste wines from four different wineries.

We all really enjoyed the visit, the great wine, and the spectacular view of Southern Napa Valley and I definitely look to visiting here again in the future.

"AWFUL!!!! Under construction"

Reviewed August 13, 2014

I have been coming to NAPA since the late 80's. I have toured 100's of wineries literally. For $50 you can go to KALUTO and have a beautiful view. If you want good wines...go to CAYMUS for $25 or caves go to DEL DOTTO for $60!!! This place is not $80 worth at all!!!! The wines are on a rotation basis, don't go with any expectations or you will be sadly disappointed. They greatly over estimate the value of the reserve wine tour! $80 with no where to sit and not a flower in site. It looks like a rock quarry with a view of the valley next to a bucket of dead flowers. I would like to have gone the day the pics posted here were taken. This was NOT our experience. Won't be back and will tell everyone about it! But not cause it was enjoyable. Just sadly memorable.....

"Gem on the Mountainside"

Reviewed June 27, 2014

Wine tasting at the Caves is an exceptional experience. The tour is witnessing a work in progress, since this is the first year the Caves have been open. Can't wait to come back to see how it ultimately looks when the project is completed! The views of Napa Valley from the side of the mountain are breathtaking and Crystal adds that special touch. And then, of course, there's the wine! Four family wineries call the Caves home. Each has its own special way of producing top notch wine. I'm a cab lover, so my favorite was by the Buoncristiani Family. FYI: Tastings by appointment only.

the dark caves, even going into sections that were not completed yet - viewing massive rock borings and walking on dirt floors all smelling of rich earth - while sipping on wonderful wines, one right out of the barrel. And then walla - the light at the end of the tunnel. A massive door is opened and light spills into the darkness. With soft music playing in the background, you emerge onto a beautiful, furnished patio with expansive views of the valley where you enjoy more wine and food and friendship (the owner/tour guide is awesome) and laughter. I recommend again and again.

"Beautiful winery with amazing views"

Reviewed June 4, 2014

My wife and I visited the Caves in late March. Our host was Chris who couldn't have been nicer. We had our own private tour with a wine tasting that overlooked the Valley. The weather was perfect and the views are stunning. We ended up buying a case of wine (I believe they four different vineyards that they feature there) to have shipped back home to us. The caves themselves are impressive and the amount of work being put into them is equally impressive. Can't wait to see the place when it's completely finished. The highlight of our trip to Napa which is saying a lot.

"Fabulous tour and Breathtaking Views"

Reviewed May 28, 2014

We were so happy we visited the Caves at Soda Canyon. The tour was fabulous. It was one of our favorites during our trip. Our host, one of the founders/owners, was absolutely wonderful. He was charismatic and family oriented and had a contagious energy for wine. It was also a treat to have a tour hosted by a founder of the winery.

One of the members of our group particularly loves Reislings and Ports, and she was extremely excited when we were given both to taste as part of our tour. She absolutely love them both!

During our tour, we were all very excited when we were given the opportunity to explore a small part of the unfinished cave in addition to the finished portion. It will be interesting to come back in a few years and see it when it is finished. We may never get to explore the inside of an unfinished cave so we very much enjoyed this part.

We were all blown away by the breathtaking views as we exited the cave. The views were majestic. Everything was perfect. The tasting table at the Caves of Soda Canyon on the outside balcony was a riddling table from Schramsberg!! Pretty neat!!

My husbands favorite part was when he was given the opportunity during the tour to hit golf balls off the side of the cliffs while sipping on his wine.

It was a wonderful experience. We were all so glad we visited the Caves at Soda Canyon and would highly recommend it to any travelers. We hope to come back one day!

"Highlight of Napa"

Reviewed April 12, 2014

We met Crystal (one of the owners) at dinner one night (Fume- also highly recommended!!!), she was well known in the restaurant and we were drawn to her personality (eavesdropping) and curious about the fact that her shirt said 'the caves'. We asked our waitress to see if she would mind coming by to speak to us and from there we were sold. We emailed Crystal and she was very accommodating of our last minute request. The tour of the completely underground cave was breathtaking and an experience on it's own. The views outside the wine cave are breathtaking and the wines are great. I loved all the red wines (and this is coming from a white wine drinker). Crystal and Ryan are a lovely couple, very outgoing and their personalities are magnetic. I'm sure we kept them past closing but we couldn't get enough!! I would recommend this cave to anyone visiting napa valley. This was the cherry on top of our weekend getaway!

"Nice winery"

Reviewed February 16, 2014

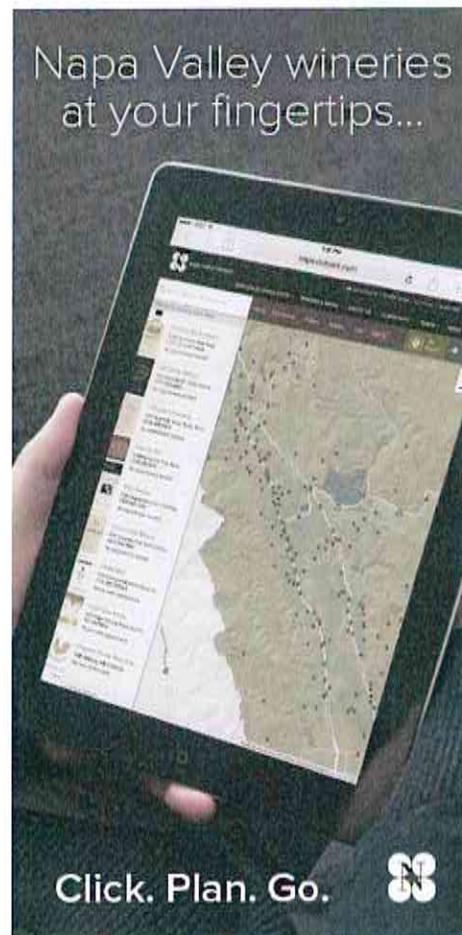

We stopped in here based on a friend's recommendation (he knows one of the owners). They haven't been open that long, but the wines were very good and they have an amazing little patio overlooking the lower valley that you do your tasting on. We would definitely go back! We did have a little meat/cheese/nut plate with our wines.

“Highlight of our wine trip”

Reviewed January 22, 2014

The Caves at Soda Canyon was the highlight of our recent visit to Napa. From this location you get a very scenic view of the valley. We were there at the end of the day and experienced the sun setting. With four wineries using the caves we were able to experience different styles of winemaking all in one tasting experience. Finally, the people that we met at the tasting (staff) were great and just very cool to talk to and learn about their wines and the caves.
