BACKGROUND AND DISCUSSION

The Center for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) began responding to an outbreak of respiratory disease caused by a new coronavirus that was first detected in Wuhan City, Hubei Province, China in December 2019 and has now been detected in at least 122 countries. The disease name has been abbreviated to COVID-19. CDC considers COVID-19 a very serious public health threat because much is unknown. The number of reported cases has escalated dramatically over a short period of time. As of March 11, 2020, the World Health Organization (WHO) made the assessment that COVID-19 can be characterized as a pandemic.

On February 26, 2020, a patient in Solano County with no known travel to affected areas was diagnosed with COVID-19 and may be the first case of community-acquired COVID-19 in the United States. Cases of COVID-19 have also been identified in other Bay Area counties and there have been four deaths in California. There have been ongoing disease outbreaks in long-term care facilities and congregate settings of people at risk for complications of COVID-19 disease.

On March 4, 2020, Governor Newsom proclaimed a state of emergency in California. The United States has announced travel restrictions from certain European nations, the National Basketball Association has suspended its season, and events are being canceled or postponed across California. By proclamation and declaration on March 12, 2020, Dr. Karen Relucio, the Napa County Public Health Officer, proclaimed the existence of a local health emergency due to the imminent and proximate threat to public health from the introduction of COVID-19 in Napa County. Pursuant to Napa County Code Section 2.80.060, on March 13, 2020, Minh C. Tran, County Executive Officer proclaimed the existence of a local emergency to provide immediate action beyond the County's ordinary response capabilities. Both actions were ratified by the Board of Supervisors on March 17, 2020. On March 18, 2020 Dr. Relucio issued a Stay At Home Order which is attached to this item and remains effective through April 7, 2020.

Today's action will continue the proclamation of a local emergency, the local health emergency and the Stay At Home Order through April 7, 2020.
